

WLRI Lunchtime Seminar Series 2011

William James Linton: Chartist, poet and engraver

Speaker : Ian Haywood

25th March 2011 at 12:30 pm
Room JS1-41

Professor Ian Haywood will talk about Linton's unique place within the 19th-century radical tradition and the importance of remembering and understanding his contribution to the democratization of art and literature.

Ian Haywood is Professor of English at Roehampton University, London. he works mainly on radicalism, literature and popular visual culture in the Romantic and early Victorian periods. His last two books were 'Bloody Romanticism' (2006) and 'The Revolution in Popular Literature' (2004); he also edited 3 volumes of Chartist fiction for Ashgate.

WLRI: London Metropolitan University, 31 Jewry St, London
EC3N 2EY

12:30-2pm in Room JS1-41

This event is free, open to all, and there is no need to register.
Contact Jawad Botmeh in JS2-77 for further enquiries:

0207 320 3042 / j.botmeh@londonmet.ac.uk

